Procedure for dealing with suspected incidents of bullying or harassment:

Guidelines for staff

1. All complaints about bullying should be taken seriously and treated sensitively. It is important to discuss possible/desirable strategies with the victim in the first instance and proceed as appropriate.
2. If you are the person to whom the incident is reported or who first discovered the incident, take time to make the situation safe if necessary i.e control of bully and support for victim.
3. Write a brief report. The relevant Faculty manager should be informed.
4. As a general guideline, members of staff will respect confidentiality of the individual. However, where confidentiality has to be broken, then the complainant should be involved in the process. In some cases the individual may first want to talk about bullying but may not wish to take matters further. In this case a strategy should be developed with the student to address the situation.

Students should be encouraged to give the following information.

- Date(s), times(s) and place(s) of incident(s)
- Name of any witnesses
- What actually happened
- How it made them feel
- Any action taken e.g. reported to a member of staff
- Original copies of any correspondence or written material connected with the issue

When a student requests or needs it, the member of staff can record this for them, taking care to ensure the students words are accurately recorded. This information will inform the mediation process if it is decided to embark on this. It will also be used as evidence in any subsequent disciplinary proceedings.

5. The victim and bully should be interviewed separately.

6. Where appropriate the Faculty manager should write to parents/carers detailing the incident and stating that LBC is taking action.

7. A meeting should be convened, if this is considered appropriate, whereby conciliation between all parties might be reached. Be sensitive to the needs of the victim and make sure there is someone present who can effectively mediate. The mediator should be a senior member of the LBC staff. The mediator can help participants to resolve their dispute and to co-exist at LBC, through using the following procedure.

- Both parties define the problem as they see it, alone with the mediator
- The impartial mediator identifies the key issues for both parties – these are listed on paper

- At the end of the individual session with the mediator, the mediator ascertains whether or not the parties are willing to meet together, along with the mediator. This is the point when real mediation can take place, if both parties are willing to try, to move towards reconciliation
- At the joint meeting, both parties should be able to speak and express their opinion, but this is led by the mediator, only one person is allowed to speak at once, to ensure this meeting doesn't turn into a battle. The mediator needs to firmly control the meeting
- The mediator sets up a plan of action which will satisfy each party and obtains agreement on these
- A follow up action is agreed and monitored at agreed intervals

8. Where it is found that the parties involved are unable to agree a way forward then the formal disciplinary procedure will be involved. When the alleged perpetrator of bullying or harassment is a member of staff, the LBC Policy on Bullying and Harassment should be followed through Personnel Procedures.
